July: Feature Story

The Importance of Immunizations

by Anna Anttila, BSN, RN, PHN

Mendocino County residents are blessed with many activities and opportunities that enhance their health and wellbeing, such as outdoor recreation, children's summer camps, and ideal growing conditions for many fruits and vegetables. One important element in promoting health is vaccination against infectious diseases—a health promotion strategy in which our county lags behind others.

Immunizations play an important role in maintaining health and preventing disease across the lifespan. During pregnancy, flu can cause serious problems for the mother and her baby. Pertussis, or "whooping cough," also can be deadly for new babies, but they are too young to be immunized against these diseases. Some of the protection a pregnant woman gets from these shots passes to her baby in the womb. This will help protect her baby until he or she is old enough to be immunized against these diseases.

Community Health Survey!

Healthy Mendocino has partnered with Mendocino County Health and Human Services Agency, Ukiah Valley Medical Center, Frank R. Howard Memorial Hospital, the Alliance for Rural Community Health, and North Coast Opportunities to conduct a county-wide community health needs assessment to identify the specific needs and challenges of the community. As part of the project, the coalition developed an anonymous, community-wide survey that Mendocino County residents are asked to complete.

Take the Survey!

The survey asks about a range of issues including gaps in health care services, general health and insurance information, housing barriers, and more. It also asks respondents to identify the most pressing issues facing Mendocino County families. The survey is available on HealthyMendocino.org and the HHSA-Public Health website, and it is also available in print form, in English and Spanish.
